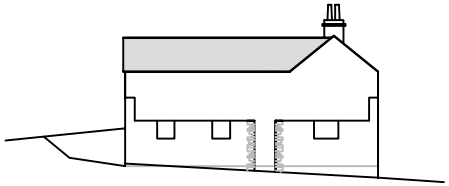
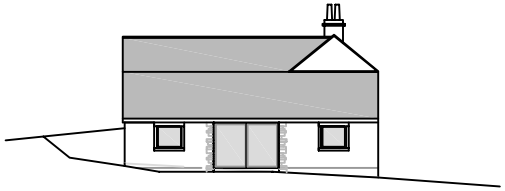
Resubmission Supporting Information - Alterations to Openings

Existing Elevation



Proposed Elevation



The openings shown on the existing elevation do not portray the original agricultural use of the building as the large opening previously used to accommodate the storage of cattle has been blocked up by previous owners

The alterations propose to open up this elevation to reflect the true use of the original shippon building. The proposed openings are to utilise tinted glass and minimal framing to provide clean lines and give the appearance of a derelict building.

The design reduces the amount of stonework to be removed by situating the proposed openings where the current openings are sited. The glazed doors cover 2 of the existing openings resulting in only the stonework between them having to be removed.
