

Appendix 2: Census Returns and Trade Directories

Below are selected census returns for Mill Street (Site 18) and Yorkshire Street, formerly known as Yorkshire Row (Site 22). For Mill Street, the 1871, 1891 and 1911 census returns are listed but as Yorkshire Street did not exist by 1911, only 1871 and 1891 are listed below. For each entry, the house number, name of occupant, their age, their employment and place of birth were recorded for this exercise.

Mill Street

In the 1851 Census, Mill Street was indistinguishable from the wider Milltown area therefore the 1871, 1891 and 1911 returns are listed below. It should be noted that 10 Mill Street was a licensed lodging house in the 1871 census and unless the county is listed, the county of birth is Derbyshire:

Yorkshire Street

Only part of Yorkshire Street falls within the study area therefore numbers 15-23 (odd) and 10-14 (even) are the only ones recorded here. The whole street is mentioned only by name in the 1911 return, suggesting that although the street still existed, the houses no longer stood.

Appendix 3: Designated Sites

The following is a table of designated sites both within the study area and within a 50m radius, courtesy of the Derbyshire HER.

HER Designation ID	National Heritage List No'	Name	Grade	Location	Description
HER6123	-	Howardtown Mills	-	SK03712 94050	See preceding chapters
HER6194	-	Elim Church, Ellison Street	-	SK 03590 04130	The foundation stones for The Gospel Union and Blue Ribbon Mission were laid in 1888. It was later to become known as Elim Tabernacle. Prior to 1888, the Mission was held in the then Liberal Hall. The Mission was an offspring of the Blue Ribbon Army, which was founded by Pastor Howton and which held services in public places and street corners as the Salvation Army does today. The Chapel is still in use today [2009]. (Glossop Heritage Trust, Glossopdale Churches and Chapels )
HER33325	-	Cross Cliffe Cotton Mill (site of)	-	SK03950 93970	To the south-east of Howard Town Mills, on the opposite side of Glossop Brook, was Cross Cliffe cotton mill. This mill was built in c. 1783. It burnt down in 1868 and was rebuilt, but had gone out of use by 1880, being then demolished in 1902. Its site is now occupied by a new housing development called Croft Manor. The goit taken from the Hurst Brook to provide the mill's power survived until 1989. (1) On 24 November 1782 John Newton took out a lease from the Lord of the Manor to build a mill at Cross Cliffe, on the Hurst Brook. The date when this mill actually came operational is unclear, but if it was 1783, as is suggested, the mill would have been one of the first purpose-built cotton mills in the area. The mill burned down in 1868, and was then rebuilt some time later when it became part of Wood's Mill in Howard Town. Demolished in 1902. HER33327	-	Glossop Mill (site of)	-	SK03930 94320	A mill is shown on this site on Burdett's map of 1767. The corn mill, with a mill pond immediately to the north, is shown as being in use on the OS map of 1921. However, it was demolished prior to 1928. (1, 2) The site is suggested to be that of Glossop's medieval corn mill, belonging to the lord of the manor.
