Subject: HPK/2021/0087 Barn Cottage, Ashbourne Lane, Chapel-En-Le-Frith. Two Storey Side Extension and Alterations to existing openings. (Resubmission of HPK/2020/0093) - archaeology

Dear Faye,

Thank you for consulting on the above planning application.

Barn Cottage has a record on Derbyshire HER (MDR21535), arising from the Peak District Historic Farmsteads Project in 2016. It is identified as a '19th century outfarm' comprising a single building. It's on the 1880 OS map and was probably associated with High Eaves Farm as a field barn or similar. It underwent domestic conversion in 1988 and has consequently lost a deal of its historic authenticity, although it does retain some external features and 'reads' in the landscape as a former agricultural building of linear form.

The proposed side extension is subservient to the main building and preserves the linear form with an appropriate window arrangement to the new gable end. I advise that this conserves the significance of the former barn and therefore have no objection to the proposals.

Best wishes
