Comments: After looking at the plans for the planned extension to our next door property , we are concerned about the height of the roof and how far it is going out . It looks like it will be considerably higher and longer than the existing conservatory and this would spoil our view of hills . Also it will be darker and possibly stop light to our breakfast/dinning room .

We have no objections to a new building as such , however the front of the conservatory slopes down and wondered if the new extension could be similar .

Could we have more information please
