Comments: There are no details of the diversion provided. Any diversion would involve a long steep route that would not be accessible to many walkers, and impractical for most. Footpath 61 is a reasonably flat route, unlike most of the footpaths in the area, so is appreciated by many people who struggle with gradients.

The Construction Method Statement stated at point 6:

There is a public footpath through the site and it is the intention to keep this operational throughout the project. Please refer to the attached site plan and layout drawing. There will be provision of a fenced off pedestrian walkway that will have to cross the vehicle route at one signed and designated position.

The developer should be proceeding in line with this statement and keep the footpath open.
