Comments: The traffic on the A57 along Dinting Vale is already incredible busy most of the time especially when there are roadworks, which there seem to be very frequently. Rush hour with the primary school's location is really busy and as this is the main road in, out and through Glossop and the surrounding areas.

I strongly feel that another 100 houses with potentially 2-3 cars each is the last thing we need for traffic and air quality.

Furthermore the local doctors & dentists are already overstretched and struggling to service the overpopulated area as it is, please reconsider this housing development.
