Comments: I'm 22 and have lived in glossop my whole

Life, it's a beautiful area to live. I'm a final year student nurse and live part time in stoke for my course but can not wait each weekend to come home to my home town to take a nice walk, breath in the fresh air and take in the incredible views, where I feel fortunate to call home.

Glossop is not a place to be built up upon and make it a big town, it's a small country village that had good hard working people in it, we're a community. Building more houses in our area is taking all the beauty away. You're destroying the nature, animals habitats and polluting the once fresh clean air with houses that we DO NOT NEED. You're creating more houses and destroying country land for the profit benefit of yourself and for the purpose of Manchester/ Sheffield commuters. Please do not build any more houses, you've already started building across from gamesley estate which blocks the beautiful view of our peaks. These houses are ugly and new brick.

You need to concentrate on making the poorer estates like

Gamesley and Whitfield houses better and more stable, rather than looking to the future of others. Provide for the current community and our nature. Don't take up and destroy any more land. Animals

Lives matter too.
