Comments: Rather than trying to develop green belt land under the guise of renewable energy (which is not the case), perhaps the council should look to protect the land in the area. Marsh lane is not built for the heavy duty vehicles that would take to develop this project; its residents suffer regular issues with pipes due to the already heavy weight of traffic, to add more traffic to an existing issue would be madness. This paired with the existing disaster of new builds off the opposite end of marsh lane makes marsh lane dangerous. It has no footpaths in places and little in the way of traffic calming. There is a park and it is regularly used by children getting to and from school which will inevitably lead to a fatality with such large vehicles using it.
