Comments: Icoming from a law enforcement background I know the dangers of introducing unknown people into a community. People's whos background we know nothing about. No name, no DOB, no ID, total unknowns. They don't speak English the majority of them, 90% are young males and the town doesn't have the services or resources to support the large number of people into the town. Many already in the country have committed crime, some serious including serial crimes and murder. When a police service objects that should be a strong indicator to you of their concerns. These illegal asylum seekers commit crime we have no way of finding them, no DNA, no fingerprints, nothing. Think if something happened to your family. Some come from countries that are safe and are abusing the system

I totally support legal immigration but this is very worrying. I support the premises being used for affordable housing to help homeless High Peak residents or other vulnerable groups within the High Peak. I totally object to the premises being used as an asylum dispersal Centre.
