Comments: I totally understand the complications and difficult decisions that need to be made regarding asylum seekers in the United Kingdom. I also understand that we cannot have a not in my backyard policy, but in this instance, I really do feel this is to many asylum seekers in to small a town

The large amount of people will overwhelm local services , including Heath ,Education, police and ambulance service

Buxtons will change ,I was in Blackpool last weekend and there are hundreds of young men just sat on steps and door ways with nothing to do and to be honest it feels quite intimidating.

The Big difference here is students where in collage and working this will be hundreds of people with nothing to do, we are on the verge of a renaissance in Buxton with the new Hotel , Opera house, and loads of new local bars and restaurants

This will put in jeopardy all the hard work and regeneration of past few years

Regards

Glenn
