Comments: We would like to express our support to the cooper family on their progressive decision to host a campsite on their land. I can imagine it's not a decision they have taken lightly (considering the fact that they are already a hard working family and this is bringing more work and responsibility to their days), but more so a thinking outside of the box decision to help their family live and survive. It's unfair that farmers are having to rethink their livelihoods due to changes out of their control. On a positive note, it is what it is and at least they are facing the challenges head on. To us a camp site is a fantastic and obvious choice, we are fortunate to have both grown up in the area, it's not a rich place, but it does house many small struggling businesses, the campsite is presenting an opportunity to bring some trade to the area for all the local businesses, to keep Tintwistle on the map and to reach the wider audience in sharing this blessed place as an experience for people living in cities etc. it is definitely a project to be supported and embraced. When we were growing up, Tintwistle was a little thriving village with a post office , hair dressers , chip shop , various pubs and other facilities, it has dwindled into a mere Hamlet as has Crowden which has even less, the campsite would bring a bit of substance to help us maintain what little bit we have. In this we hope for a positive outcome for the cooper family in their brave venture.
