Comments: I would like to know how much revenue the University of Derby will generate from this venture and how much of this money will go back into Buxton - the town that Derby propose to gain their capital from. The University are slowly withdrawing from Buxton and removing jobs and opportunities for the youth and I predict that the revenues they generate will not offset what they are taking away from Buxton. Whilst I am sure we all agree that asylum seekers do need somewhere to go and welcoming somewhere I think we would all agree that Buxton has very little to offer them in terms of socialisation, employment, health care and education. We can't even service the population we have and we don't have enough amenities for any generation that already lives here.
