Comments: In discussing this application with many local forge manor residents, it isn't the objection to developing the land for residential use that is of concern, more the proposed nature of the development. The forge manor estate has a very defined character, one that would be a fair and right expectation from all those living there to be maintained. The forge manor is a welcomed development, but it must not be overlooked that this development has already grown in scale, and has more than tripled the population of Whitehough hamlet, without any additional infrastructure to allow safe pedestrian access to the village or any consideration to the increased traffic. I strongly agree with their concerns and comments, I think the council should give some assurances that development needs to be proportionate and appropriate for its village setting. There is neither a precedence nor a requirement for three stories. Best Regards. Cllr Dan Capper
