Subject: HPK/2023/0367 - Buxton Football Club, Silverlands, Buxton.

Dear James,

With regard to the above application, the luminance levels are quoted as being 6000 cd/m²; the usual maximum luminance levels for illuminated signs adjacent to the highway is 800 to 1000cd/m², for signs below 10 m² depending on location or 600 cd/m² for signs over 10 m². Having assessed the location of the sign/scoreboard, it is unlikely that the sign would be an distraction or would present a hazard to motorists when taking account of the high boundary walls and stands; however, the sheer luminance level of the sign at 6000cd/m² is a concern and some clarification is requested from the applicant/agent about the need for such a significant brightness. In addition, the application states that the sign/scoreboard will include advertisements – clarification is requested on the type of advertisements i.e. will they have moving images for instance and when will these advertisements be shown e.g. only during match times or on other occasions?

Further comments will be provided on receipt of the requested information.

Yours sincerely,

Adrian Martin
