Comments: another tinkering to the plan which again has delayed the decision, every time it gets near the decision date the plan is slightly amended, but that does not alter the facts this is on greenbelt land and access is by a private road and its doubtful they have permission of access and it will also increase traffic on a narrow part of the lane between long lane and the railway bridge, this will cause danger to people and dogs who constantly use this right of way hundreds a day use this not a few and there is no passing point along this stretch and hardly enough room for one car and a pedestrian to pass each other. Also putting a path by the side of the proposed camping area is meaningless as the camping traffic will have already turned into the proposed site. Planning dept can you bring this farce to a close and REJECT, this should have been rejected out of hand several months ago.
