Comments: I understand from Mr Bruce that they intend to knock down the wall between the kitchen and the main downstairs room. On the plan there is an oblong shaped object and three pieces protruding from it. These may be the pillars which the family propose to put in place of the wall. I would like to know if Building Control have to be informed and to regulate this. My house is attached to No 4 and I worry about the effect that knocking down a load bearing wall might have on the structure of my house. I would appreciate someone getting back to me on this point. Thank you.
