Dear Planning,

I'm emailing you as a concerned resident of Glossop regarding the above developments. We already have huge problems with the overdevelopment of Glossop in terms of traffic, infrastructure and loss of biodiversity and these developments in addition to the others taking place at the moment can only add to the problem.

The area around Bute St and Blackshaw Clough in particular, is used by residents for recreation and having the green spaces is vital for the wellbeing of people; happy and healthy residents result in less burden on the NHS. The UK is now one of the most nature depleted countries on earth and has lost around half of its biodiversity. I think the council in approving all of these developments is being very shortsighted and neglecting to see the full consequences of approving so many housing plans on the infrastructure, the future well being of the town and its residents and most importantly the effect on the loss of nature in what is a beautiful and significant environment. Yes, we need more houses but it should be done with consideration and with thought for protecting what we are so fortunate to have.

Kind regards,

Dr Jacqueline Chrystie
