Submission: Objection

Comments: Additional objection- please add the following comments to my previous submission of comments.

An additional point has come to my attention which I wish to add to my initial submission of comments on the planning application.

It is proposed that the upstairs layout is to be altered and includes a change of use of the space, in particular the current Jack and Jill en-suite bathroom to the master bedroom and adjoining rear bedroom is to be changed to a bedroom. It appears that the only window to this bedroom would be the existing en-suite bathroom window which has obscure glazing. There is no mention as to whether or not the glazing to this window would be changed to clear glazing. Given the change of use of this space to a habitable room; it would be a reasonable assumption that it is the intention that the glazing would be changed. Since this window is on the 1st floor and is located on the side of the property that directly overlooks the rear of our amenity it would further contribute to a significant loss of privacy (in the same way as mentioned in point 3 of my original submission of comments))
