Comments: Fully support the retrospective application for planning. Outside space is only used as communicated and groups of people training are small. The gym is at capacity of membership so further sessions / noise will not occur. I believe there's been complaints around using the neighbouring road for hill sprints, I don't believe this is against any planning laws and, if so, we might need to consider all runners breachers of such rules. If permission isn't granted, outside space is still required and the courtyard could be used which would echo and, generally, that might be noisy. The gym folk aren't loud as they're training too hard!
