The new industrial units are really tall and will overlook everyone's house. They won't fit in with the area which has been residential for years.

They will look horrible from the main road as well because they don't fit with a residential area.

I walk to work at all different times. The pavements are really narrow and the road is very busy. If there is more traffic going up and down it'll make it dangerous. The road is already busy at peak times, commuters will make it even worse.

The new use of the site will change the type of vehicles using the road. They will be bigger and there will be lorries because its warehouses and workshops. This will make it even more dangerous especially for kids walking to school and the park.

The units will need security lights which could shine into my windows. It will also be noisy. If the work there makes any dust or smells that will affect my house.

The new entrance is almost opposite my house. I'm worried that vehicles turning could damage cars parked on the road and damage my drive.

Will they be doing night shifts? These could keep us all awake.

The junction from the main road onto Ashbourne Lane where it joins Beresford Road is very busy anyway and hard to cross especially for the kids on their way to school.
