

Significance Overlay

Grove Hotel, Buxton

The following overlays provide a summary of the significance of each room. This is taken as an approximation of combined significance and may not account for individual elements of higher or lower significance within rooms which are identified in the detailed Gazetteer above.

Notable points include:

- All windows at the property have been identified as non-original, c.1900 or later, and are therefore of low-no significance.
- Solid stone walls are significant where found, modern blockwork replacements are insignificant aside from their contribution to layout and replicated external character.
- Significance may or may not account for the condition of elements and finishes, which are overall in poor condition, particularly plasterwork. Specific examples in main report above.
