Comments: I moved from Manchester to Harpur Hill and noticed a significant drop in connectivity, from Wi-Fi to mobile phone signal. Obviously, moving from a city to a rural area was always anticipated to be a drop in connectivity, however, it is important to bring the area up to speed. I often work from home but struggle to do so reliably sometimes due to the phone signal, when I work from home, I contribute to local cafes and shops during my lunch break, as well as general day to day communication with family and friends. I think the signal mast is incredibly important to support with the wider network.
