I walk past this site most weekends and have done so regularly over the past 18 months, giving me a consistent view of how the land has been managed during that period.

During that time, I have observed a clear improvement in the site's condition. The dry stone wall boundaries have been restored, and additional planting has taken place, with more trees now established across the land. These changes have contributed positively to the appearance of the site within this rural setting.

As someone who loves animals, I have particularly enjoyed seeing a small number of chickens roaming on the land, and sheep on occasion. It is genuinely pleasing to come across animals being kept in this way during a walk, and their presence adds to the character of the area rather than detracting from it.

It is also encouraging to see someone clearly committed to the welfare of their animals, which is what this proposal appears to reflect. The development of an animal welfare and lambing barn, along with a new access track, seems like a thoughtful and practical investment in the proper care of livestock.

In my view, the land is now more actively maintained and better cared for than it was previously, and this proposal is consistent with that positive direction. I am happy to support this application.
