Comments: The woodland opposite Rose Cot. is an integral and welcome part if the landscape and heritage of The Wash.

Its preservation is important to the hamlet.

It is with this consideration in mind, along with the current standards of ecological and environmental subtle enhancements, that I support the application for a modest animal welfare structure. I note that it will be elevated from the road, therefore only partially visible. It will be further obscured by mature trees.

The road that permits access to the woodland is extremely quiet. The entrance is sufficiently far from the nearest bend and junction so as not to create any appreciable risk.

The nature of the activities, given the small size of the woodland, will not increase any traffic beyond current levels.

The application, structure and intended use are in keeping with the area, intended use and general environment.
