Comments: I have concerns with the effect this building will have on the local wildlife. These fields support plenty of pheasants and partridge which will disappear. This a common hunting ground for barn owls which you can watch quite often. This is going to affect their habits.

Other concerns are the steep gradient on the site and the possible stability issues it could cause with dwellings further down the hill.

The access is also going to be an issue, the roads are quite narrow and many nearby properties have to park on the road, meaning contractors will struggle with machinery.

Overall there will be a quite significant damage on the local environment and nature is going to lose out.
